

SusNet

Sustaining networked knowledge: expertise,
feminist media production, art and activism

Investigators: Kate O'Riordan & Aristeia Fotopoulou
(University of Sussex)

How do we sustain knowledge in an environment that is constantly reinventing itself?

Aim: The SusNet network brings together feminist cultural production, art and activist practices and enables exchanges between different researchers, activists, artists and dimensions of community.

SusNet

Sustaining networked knowledge: expertise, feminist media production, art and activism

How we will do it: Online network of resources

- The website/REFFRAME platform (launch April 2013)
- Produced and edited by a Research Assistant (April 2013-January 2014).

SusNet

Sustaining networked knowledge: expertise, feminist media production, art and activism

How we will do it: Exploring new publishing, research, teaching methods and archives

- Mirroring of the website material via the EPSRC.
- A 'frozen' ebook version of this material housed by Open Humanities Press.

SusNet

Sustaining networked knowledge: expertise, feminist media production, art and activism

Community-facing events

- Queer, feminist and social media praxis workshop (17 May 2013)
- Code/ activism workshop (12 April 2013)

Steering group & network events

- Meetings in May, September, December 2013
- Network event in December 2013.

We welcome your feedback and ideas.

